FOREWORD

Young Australians in International Affairs is committed to fostering opportunities for young Australians in pursuing careers in international relations and foreign affairs. We are pleased to present you with the 3rd annual edition of our Careers Guide, one of the most comprehensive guides of its type for those looking to engage in international affairs.

The Careers Guide will enable you to gain an overview of career pathways in both private and public-sector organisations as well as in think-tanks, research centres and other international organisations. Aimed primarily at Australian students, graduates, and young professionals, the guide discusses ways to gain skills, experience, and conduct your job search. Each category has information about the industry and specific information relating to the organisation and opportunities that they offer.

To access further information regarding career resources please visit the Young Australians in International Affairs website. Our Jobs, Internships and Opportunities Board has the latest offerings in Australia and overseas and our Careers Blog has interviews with industry leaders and young professionals as well as feature articles relevant to work issues in international affairs.

AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT

APPLICANT INFORMATION

ABOUT: A career in the Australian Public Service (APS) offers the opportunity to work at the highest policy levels in these areas for the Commonwealth Government. The APS offers employment opportunities for people at all stages of their career—from university graduates through to senior executives and professionals. Graduate programs are offered for most departments and agencies with intakes at the start of each calendar year.

LOCATION: Most federal government positions are located Canberra (ACT). Some departments or agencies have offices in other locations throughout Australia. Many departments and agencies offer employees the opportunity to work overseas (often at an Australian Embassy, Consulate or Mission).

QUALIFICATIONS: To apply for most jobs in the APS, applicants must be Australian citizens. For some jobs, such as those in intelligence, defence and foreign policy, employment is contingent on applicants obtaining and maintaining a security clearance.

INTERESTS: Foreign policy, defence, national security, intelligence, international law, human rights, development, trade, economics.

SAMUEL MYERS

Policy Officer, Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade

"Working for the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade has given me the opportunity to work in a high pressure, high impact area of government. Knowing your work can be read by not just your immediate section and boss, but also by your minister, or the media (domestic and international), engenders a great deal of pride."
